FOSS, WHO WILL SPEAK HERE, ONE OF BIG GUNS IN CONGRESS

Meeting Monday to be Important One in County Political Affairs

TEMPLE TO BE GIVEN FIRST AID

National Committee Wants Him Back In Congress—County Ticket to be Boosted—Vigorous Fight to be Waged From Now On.

Probably the biggest meeting of the Republican campaign preceding the general election November 2 will be held in Charleroi next Monday evening at the Majestic theatre. The speakers will be Congressman George Edmund Foss, one of the big guns in Congress for several years, former Congressman Henry W. Temple and Congressman-at-large Thomas S. Crago.

Congressman Foss is being sent to Washington county by the Republican national committee chiefly to help former Congressman Temple. The national Republicans are particularly anxious to have Mr. Temple returned to Congress, recognizing in him a strong man and a possible future power in the nation. Mr. Foss has always been in close touch with the affairs of the United States navy serving for 12 years on the house naval committee while he was a member of congress from Cook county, Illinois. In 1900 he refused the assistant secretaryship of the navy to become chairman of the house naval committee. He has always taken a leading role in questions of national defense and his address will be along this line. Mr. Foss will present some striking facts on preparedness, which is now one of the leading and momentous issues of the day in this country. He is a brother of ex-Governor Foss of Massachusetts.

Former Congressman Temple and Congressman Crago are both well known here. They will both treat of national and district issues, and will discuss local matters as well.

Members of the county committee will gather at the Republican headquarters at Washington on Monday morning at 11 o'clock. This will be

ATHENE CLUB DISCUSSION IS ON SUBJECT OF "COLLEGES"

Mrs. F. P. McCloskey is Hostess—Paper Presented by Mrs. A. O. Davis.

At the second meeting of the fall and winter season of the Charleroi Athene club, held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. P. McCloskey of Sixth street and Crest avenue, the discussion of "Colleges" was taken up under the general head of "The United States." Mrs. Alden O. Davis presented the paper, "The Centenary Pageant of Allegheny College." Pictures which she exhibited were used to illustrate her talk. Mrs. John W. Gordon was to read a paper but being unable to be present Mrs. A. R. Mountsier took her place and made some general remarks about colleges. The meeting was a much enjoyed one.

MANY CANDIDATES WITHDRAW NAMES

Over 200 in County Prefer Not to Have Their Names On Official Ballots

LIST NOW BEING PREPARED

Chief Clerk H. R. Campbell, of the commissioners office, is busy preparing the ballot for the printers for the election. He has had some trouble in this respect, as he has received affidavits from about 200 people who were nominated at the primaries for county, township and borough offices and who desire to have their names withdrawn from the ticket. This is the greatest number of withdrawals that has been sent to the commissioners in several years. The entire Washington party ticket for county offices has withdrawn, as well as the nominees in a number of townships and boroughs.

The great number of withdrawals is explained by the fact that voters often write the name of a citizen on the ticket at the primaries. The person becomes a nominee, although he may have received only one vote. The commissioners must then have his name printed on the ballot, unless they receive an affidavit of withdrawal from the man himself.

There will be no Washington party for the county offices, but there is a ticket in about 70 of the precincts of the county for township and borough offices.

MOCK TRIAL HELD BEFORE BIG CROWD

Ludicrous Situations Develop in Trial of Dr. Mead And W. D. Pollock for Grand Larceny—Challenging Of Jurors Amusing

In a Mock Trial that was one of the most entertaining affairs ever presented at the high school auditorium, Dr. Wesley Gilbert Mead, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church and W. D. Pollock were found guilty Friday night of grand larceny of an automobile belonging to John H. Frye. Yet their sentence was light, being nothing more or less than advice to live wholesomely the remainder of their days and to "hang" to the never slip strands of old age. The sentence was solemnly imposed by the judge, John S. Rodgers, Esq., after the jury composed of well known business men and citizens with J. B. Tussing as foreman had reversed itself on the decision.

The trial was staged under the auspices of the Good Will Bible class of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school with "Bill Nye" Martin an attorney of Uniontown assisting.

Following the custom of any properly regulated court naturally the first thing was the calling of talismen for the jury. From 40 to 50 names were read off and repeated through the audience by the court crier, Jesse Wagoner and tipstuffs Frank Barnett, Harry Frye and John Colliffe. From the list 12 men were selected. Then the challenging of jurors by the attorneys for the prosecution and the defense began. Results were that three were compelled to retire from the box, though others were questioned. Ray J. Humbert was discharged from jury service because he bought his shoes from various dealers, including an attorney for the defense. "Bud" Laird lost out because he had neglected to speak with his wife about the possibility of jury service and John C. McKean because he admitted he wouldn't change his opinion about the case even if he knew he was wrong. One jurymen—J. Bryant Tussing—was challenged by the attorneys for the prosecution, and asked if he had ever gone joy-riding. He asked for a definition of joy-riding, whereupon he was peremptorily told to sit down. Another juror was objected to on the question of intelligence, it being alleged by H. J. Booth, attorney for the defense that he had read the Charleroi Mail.

The juryman finally chosen were Walter Byerly, Kerfoot W. Kaly, J. J. Hott, L. H. Goehring, J. B. Tussing, H. L. Heupel, Frank Bly, J. D. Berryman, Bill Nye Martin, R. H. Rush, George D. Clark and Capt. J. K. Hein. The case generally outlined was that Dr. Mead and Mr. Pollock had taken the Frye auto from in front of the Methodist Episcopal church Friday evening, September 17 and had gone joy riding to Speers, Belle Vernon and Monessen, returning to Charleroi to a garage for auto repairs late at night.

Ralph White as clerk of court swore witnesses, making them promise to "tell the truth, nearly all the truth and not much more than the truth." Witnesses for the prosecution were interrogated by Ray Kent as an attorney for the prosecution, and cross-examination was conducted by H. J. Booth as one of the attorneys for the defense. Some side-splitting testimony was offered in an effort to convict the two meek-looking defendants chained together at the rear of the stage. John H. Frye, prosecutor was the first called to the witness stand. Witnesses for the prosecution were: Wes Penn, George Leith, R. Koroner, James T. Heffran of Speers; B. Vernon, S. B. Graham of Belle Vernon; A. Mayor, Burgess A. G. Dunlap of Monessen; A. Frost, Phillip Snow, tollkeeper at the Monessen-Charleroi bridge; Steve Markovitch, John Jenkins; O. U. Schwitzer, George Gehring.

The prosecution closed its testimony with a great show and the defense began, W. H. Milliken an attorney for the defense conducting the examination. Thomas H. Warrensford for the prosecution conducted the cross-examination. Witnesses for the defense were: George Washington, Frank Mallick; Will I. Eie, Prof. T. L. Pollock, Admiral Dewey, R. A. Roberts; William Jennings Bryan, T. E. Eagye; Dent I. Frice, Clarence B. James; Tony Spaghetti, Lambert Heaton; Tell A. Truth, Prof. C. E. Prescho.

Objections to testimony added spice to the trial. Meanwhile the court stenographer, Prof. J. R. Carroll, was kept busy.

Some of the funniest testimony of all was offered by John Jenkins as Steve Markovitch and Lambert Heaton as Tony Spaghetti. The work of the attorneys was immense. The address to the jury for the prosecution was offered by Thomas H. Warrensford and so well did he do that tears were brought to eyes of at least one who had been rudely awakened on two previous occasions by the grotesquely attired sheriff, Louis J. Mitchell. H. J. Booth addressed the jury for the defense and made remarkably good points, one of his best being to the effect that if the jury decided for the defense settlement would be made with the individual members at once, while he argued the prosecution would not settle their obligations at all.

The progress of the trial was watched by a crowd that almost completely filled the spacious auditorium, and laughed till the tears came at the ludicrous situations developed and the unusual testimony offered.

GOOD GASSER STRUCK ON LEASE OF J. L. DUNN AT DUNN'S STATION

Well Brings in Good Supply Shortly After Opening is Made—Gauge Placed at Noon Friday.

A gas well that according to latest reports was making 4,500,000 cubic inches was brought in about 12 o'clock Thursday night on the J. L. Dunn lease at Dunns Station. The well was put down by the Arco Oil & Gas company of Washington, formed by Messrs. William McK. Smith, B. K. Maitland, Jerry Burns and M. W. Larkin.

Gas was struck when the pay sand had been penetrated about 15 feet. Pebbles of all sizes and sand were turned to the top of the derrick by the escaping fluid. It was capped immediately and the boiler is being moved preparatory to drilling the well deeper.

The nearest well to the new producer is three-quarters of a mile away. Because of this fact it is expected that other locations will be made in the vicinity and more wells put down.

When first brought in the well was estimated to be making 3,000,000 cubic feet but when a gauge was placed on it at noon Friday it registered 4,500,000.

UNION W. C. T. U. MEETING IS HELD

Local People Take Part in Gathering of Several Societies

ADOPT NOTABLE RESOLUTION

With 75 present from Charleroi, Belle Vernon, Monongahela, Monessen, Eldora and Donora societies, the second union meeting this year of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of the district was held at the home of Mrs. M. E. Rabe at Donora Friday.

An interesting program was carried out. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. Will H. Watson, president of the Donora society. The response was given by Mrs. J. L. Luce of Belle Vernon. Speeches were made by Mrs. Stone of Eldora and Mrs. J. H. McClusky of Monongahela. Mrs. Octave Jacquemin of Monongahela was in charge of the program. Miss Bird of Donora sang a solo and Mrs. James Stuart of Speers gave a report of conventions which she had attended.

Mrs. Emma Dawson, president of the Charleroi union offered a resolution to the effect that Christian bodies avoid being banqueted or entertained at hotels having liquor li-

"Eventually; Why not now?" With these words Mrs. Paul Lawrence Dunbar, widow of the famous poet Dunbar put the question of woman suffrage up to the voters Friday evening in an address under the auspices of the local suffrage league at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield avenue. The address was characteristic. It was a logically presented argument by a cultured woman of reasons why woman should be given the ballot.

Mrs. Dunbar, one of the most noted suffrage speakers of the nation, appeared as the second speaker at a public suffrage meeting in the fall campaign. Alexander Irvine of New York city preceded her only a few days. Monday night Mrs. Henry St. Jerome's Lyceum in furtherance of the movement for votes for women.

In her address Mrs. Dunbar proved to the satisfaction of her large audience that women were the equals of men and that she had now reached the place where she was able to take her part in matters of government. She presented the argument that politics has a direct influence on the lives of women now, even though she doesn't vote. This was preliminary to the question as to why they shouldn't have a say in something that affects them.

Would women be hysterical in voting? she asked. Then she illustrated. Supposing at a warmly contested ball game there were two outs, with two men on bases. Upon the man at bat would depend whether there would be a score made, changing the game. He has two strikes. Then he strikes out. Hats go into the air and men became frenzied. Would that be hysteria? she asked, aiming to prove that women voting would be no more hysterical than men.

After the street meeting Mrs. Dunbar spoke at the St. James' A. M. E. church to a good sized audience.

MARY PICKFORD TO FEATURE TUESDAY PICTURE AT COYLE

Two announcements of much interest for the coming week at the Coyle theatre are "Sin" with Theda Bara in the leading role which will be shown Monday and "Esmeralda" with Mary Pickford in the title role for Tuesday. "Sin" is an unusually powerful and convincing work abounding in strong dramatic climaxes growing out of the clash of elemental human passions. Mary Pickford, the idol of the screen will appear in the title role of "Esmeralda" which will be shown Tuesday. It is thought by many that Mary Pickford attains the greatest heights she has ever reached in this picture.
